THE SEARCH IN THE ARCTIC.

THE OBSTACLES ENCOUNTERED IN SIBERIA BY LIEUT HARBER—HIS FUTILE EFFORTS TO SECURE A STEAMER—LIEUT BERRY'S ACCOUNT OF THE LOSS OF MASTER PUTNAM

Acting Secretary of the Navy Walker received a communication from Lieut Giles B Harber, United States Navy, dated at Viska near Viteem Siberia, June 11 1882, as follows

On Thursday, April 13, I signed the contract pertaining to the steamer General Siminikoff, a copy of which was translated and sent to you the same day. Immediately after, I started north, accompanied by Mr Thornam, interpreter, and F E Manson seaman As I anticipated would be the case, we had great difficulty in getting horses without being exorbitantly cheated, and had it not been for the Governor General's strong orders which I carried, and the interpreter, I would have been greatly delayed. The snow had gone from the ground and the rivers were breaking up so the roads were nearly impassable However, we reached Viteem on the 29th of April, after experiencing every variety of conveyance and all kinds of weather. Three hundred and fifty versts were made in post-wagons, over 900 versts in sleds, nearly the whole of the latter being through mud and water, except when crossing mountains of considerable elevation where we got snow, and nearly 250 versts were made on horseback. Once only did we experience any danger, and that occurred just as we crossed a river by swimming our horses, while our baggage was taken in a small boat When the opposite bank was reached, a wonderful noise from up the river caused the natives to hasten up the river bank with horses and parcels, and at once the water rose some six feet (perpendicular height) in three minutes, and the river itself was filled with immense masses of ice, in which no boat could live. We escaped being caught in this by 10 or 15 minutes When I arrived at Viteem I found Mr Scheutze and the men who had come with him all well Mr Schentze, in accordance with instructions I had sent had made the journey to Voronzofsky Harbor He had seen the steamer I had chartered subject to my inspection He gave an unfavorable account. The same day I came to Viska, a settlement consisting of the workshops, houses, and people employed by Bazonoff & Co, and from the acting Director I learned that it would be nearly impossible to get to Voronzofsky. Though only 110 versts distant, it was through a country in which no person lived. The only route ever used—the river—would no longer be safe, and to go by land would necessitate going through unbroken forests, over a continuous series of mountains, and there were a number of streams to cross, which could not be crossed on the ice, nor were boats to be obtained. I was told, furthermore, that the steamer was being placed in running order and would be ready as soon as the river was open. As nothing could be gained, therefore, by attempting to go to Voronzofsky, I concluded to wait here until the river broke up, and in the meantime to have two dories built. I also found a boat 50 feet long and nearly 10 feet beam, which could readily be made into a schooner sufficiently large and strong to do work along the coast outside of the Delta. I accordingly purchased it and commenced repairing it so as to put it in order.

Not until the 25th of May was I able to go up to Voronzofsky. The steamer General Siminikoff had gone up the river the day I started from Viska and did not get back until the night of the 26th. Mr. Scheutze and I went on board of her and returned to Viska. During the trip down the river I inspected the hull and engines and measured the amount of wood she burned. The result was we found her quite unfit for our purpose, and, in accordance with article 8 of the contract, I declined to accept her. To the Director here I gave the following reasons:

"First, considering the length of steamer and the large surface of hull exposed to the action of waves we do not think the steamer Siminikoff has longitudinal or vertical strength to encounter with safety such weather as would undoubtedly be experienced even within the Delta of the Lena. Second, the amount of fuel burned per day, (about 10 to 18 sachin,) is so great that very little steaming would be done in the Delta without returning to Belun frequently, thus losing much time. Besides, to supply fuel on the return trip would require so much time that we would be compelled to start on the return early. We think, therefore, that on account of fuel alone we would be obliged to commence our return at an earlier date than would enable us to complete the work we anticipate."

Further particulars are recorded in my journal. I at once sent a despatch informing you of my decision, and also stating that we would start without boats in 10 days. I thought, indeed, I had made sufficient allowance for the extraordinary slowness with which these people work, but it seems I had not Now, however, all is ready and we leave at once I still hope to reach the Delta by July 1

The news that De Long and party have been found dead and that the Rodgers has been burned has been sent us from Irkutsk but full particulars are yet wanting. The exact nature of our work will be determined when I meet Melville. I go prepared to search the Delta, and from Olensk to Jana should it seem advisable The money sent for charter is in the Bank of Siberia, subject to my order. We have received every attention from the agents of the steamship company. They have placed us all in clean, airy rooms, which are gratis, and the charge for board is very small

GILES B HARBER,
Lieutenant, United States Navy

A communication, which has been partly anticipated by telegraph, was also received from Commander R M. Berry, of the Rodgers, dated Nishnei Kalymsk, Siberia, April 4 1882, in which he reports the probable sad loss of Master C. F. Putnam, whom he considered an excellent officer and courteous gentleman. He had gone down to St. Lawrence Bay with provisions and clothing for the officers and crew, and having performed that duty was returning to Eeleotlaw, near Serage Kamer, when the party was overtaken by one of the driving snow storms common in those regions After remaining out all night they found it impossible to proceed, and started to return to the village of Mittassimoni, on the south side of St. Lawrence Bay but Mr Putnam's sled became separated from the others, containing Passed Assistant Engineer Zane, Ensign H. T Hunt Dr J D Castillo, and three natives, who reached the village in safety. Mr. Putnam passed close to the village and ran out upon the ice in the bay, which broke adrift by the force of the wind and was swept out into the straits, carrying him with it Two days later, Jan 13, he was seen from shore to the southward of, and near the mouth of, the bay, without his sled, but surrounded by his dogs An attempt was made to reach him by the natives in a canoe, but after launching it they could not force it through the young ice which lay between him and the shore, nor could they pass over it A westerly wind afterward drove the ice still further from shore, and he had not been since heard from up to Jan 25 Lieut. Berry was at Eeleotlaw at the time of the occurrence, but Messrs Hunt and Zane, upon their arrival, reported that diligent search was being made along the coast, and that Mr Waring had gone to the southward to look for him Lieut Berry left Eeleotlaw Feb 8, in company with Ensign Hunt and a native guide poorly provided with dogs and with but one sled for the two and for the provisions At the village near Cape Wankarem he learned from the natives that some of them had visited a ship which came down with the ice in August or September, 1880, and took some articles from her, also, that the Thomas Crowin had visited that place in the summer of 1881 and taken some of the articles away. They described the wrecked vessels as dismasted, broken and filled with ice, having dead bodies on board and with deer horns on the flying jibboom.

At the village of Dtrouck, about 20 miles east of Jakan, a second vessel was visited by the natives about the same time and articles were brought from her on shore None had marks by which the vessel could be recognized. They described the vessel as painted black outside and white inside dismasted, filled with ice, and the ice nearly covering her There were no deer horns on the flying jibboom nor dead bodies on board In both cases the vessels were visited only once, and drifted off to the northward and westward with the wind He arrived at Nishne Kalymsk March 24 and learned of the arrival of some of the Jeannette's crew on the coast, but the information which he could at that time get was so imperfect that he waited for the Ispravnik to arrive, who gave fuller details He (Lieut Berry) states that he considers it his duty to proceed along the coast to the westward until he can meet Engineer Melville's party and confer with him as to what can be done toward determining the fate of their unfortunate countrymen. He further states that he cannot learn that the coast between that place and the Lena has been searched, and as Lieut Chipp's boat was last seen to the eastward of the others he believes that this should be done at once This will render it too late for him again to join the party at St Lawrence Bay, but he has no fears on their account, as they are well provided with such food as the natives live upon, and have officers with them to take them home when a vessel arrives. He states that he has the money furnished him before leaving San Francisco, $3,800 to meet the expenses of the search, but that it may become necessary to draw upon the honorable Secretary for a small amount He asks that the Paymaster of the receiving ship at Mare Island be directed to take up the accounts of the men when they arrive or such other accounting officer as is most convenient may do so. All bills were preserved up to Oct 1, since which time there were no changes

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug 23 The Herald states that Lieut R M Berry, who commanded the Jeannette search steamer Rodgers, and Engineer Melville, of the Jeannette, were received by the Czar this afternoon They will start for home to morrow

TO OUR READERS.

As an active participation in the campaign henceforward will require Mr Boutelle to be absent from Bangor more or less continuously, he has temporarily assigned the management of the political columns of the paper to other hands. We are fortunate in securing the assistance of Mr Joseph W Bartlett formerly editor of this paper and a journalist of wide experience, who has kindly consented to render us his valuable aid during the present canvass

THE PROPRIETORS

PROTECTION FOR THE FARMER

Elsewhere we print a valuable and interesting letter from Hon George B. Loring U. S. Commissioner of Agriculture, to Capt Boutelle, giving desired information touching the hay crop of Maine and the United States, and the relation of the tariff duty to the value thereof This letter is opportune. It furnishes evidence which must convince every farmer and every one at all interested in the varied industries of Maine that a reduction of the duty on hay would work a serious loss to the hay producers and the State at large A blow at one industry is a blow at all. A blow at the agricultural industry would be the most serious that could be struck, for that is the foundation of all our prosperity

We say this letter is opportune because it comes at a time when the free traders are making assaults all along the line against our protective system. Last week the Democratic Convention of Michigan adopted a flagrant free trade platform, in which there was no qualification, and the eastern papers which support Fusion are hastening to endorse it The Boston Post and Globe are avowed free trade organs, and the Fusion organs of Maine, almost without exception, are clamoring for a change of the protective policy, apparently for no other reason than that it is the Republican policy. There can be no longer any doubt that the purpose of the opposition in Congress is to try a change, and that the Fusion candidates for Congress would sustain that effort by voting with that opposition should they ever reach Congress In the light of these facts, read and re-read Commissioner Loring's letter, and learn therefrom what the effect would be of destroying this protective duty on hay alone

Even under the duty of 20 per cent which the foreign producers had to pay our Government in 1881 they brought into our markets hay valued at two million dollars. That is to say, they could afford to pay from $3 to $5 per ton as a tax for the privilege of competing with our farmers Suppose we strike down that tax entirely and let them have the same privilege our own farmers enjoy,—does it require great foresight to see that they are going to reduce the value of the hay crop to our farmers to at least that extent? More than that, it would doubtless flood our markets in some years so that the crop of the Maine farmer would not be worth marketing at all

No farmer and no man having at heart the general good of the State can fail to see where this Fusion clamor for free trade would lead, and no voter can make the mistake of thinking that he can vote for any except Republican candidates for Congress with safety to Maine's great agricultural interests A Republican Congress will maintain the protective system, any other Congress will try to destroy it. The signs of the times are so plain that all men can see them, and all should vote with these facts in view

MARANOCOOK

Many ladies hereabout are making arrangements to go to Maranocook to-morrow, so that the occasion will not be monopolized by the men It will be a very pleasant excursion and of course the day will be well spent there. The most eloquent orators in the country will address the assemblage, and fine music will be interspersed. Altogether, it will be the occasion of a decade in politics. Be on hand early on Wednesday. The details of the day's arrangements will be found in another column.

THE MEETING TO-NIGHT

Gen Gibson, who will speak to-night in company with Mr Blaine, is one of the most eloquent and entertaining orators in the country, and those who do not hear him will be grievously disappointed. Mr. Blaine is taking a very active part in this canvass, and all will desire to hear him also But it will be necessary to go early in order to get seats. Bangor will not soon be treated to so grand a treat as this meeting will furnish, and everybody is preparing to go.

There are rumors that even after their great revival of the State steal spirit at Lewiston the other night, Fogg and Garcelon are not to be endorsed and kept in the field as Fusion spouters. This is sad. We would like to put something in the hat to have them exhibit all over the State. Is it lack of funds, or is it lack of courage to endorse the infamies of this couple that keeps their talents down? Why not give them a fair field? At any rate, they will be useful to Plaisted in his threatened canvass after election. They know how to snatch victory from defeat.

POOR PERSECUTED PLAISTED.

Ever since Harris M. Plaisted forced himself into public life, petty grievances have been his chief stock in trade. Bulldozing in a mild and timid way has been an occasional accompaniment, and begging in a bolder way has been a frequent resort. But, failing in his threats and in his appeals for political charity, his own strong and never-failing hold has been a grievance. Years ago, those who knew him well must have observed that he was born with a grievance, and that he was christened in tears of the most grievous sort. When he was in Congress his grievance was that he was not appreciated as other members were, while in fact he was too well appreciated for his own advancement. Another grievance was that his constituents did not clamor for his re-election, this grievance arose to the dignity of a persecution when many of his former supporters accused him of spending his whole term in Congress log rolling and thimble-rigging for a renomination. He who accuses Harris M Plaisted of being just what he is and of doing just what he really does, becomes a persecutor, and is entitled to an extraordinary expenditure of tears and whines from the persecuted This persecution culminated in the absolute refusal of the Republican Convention to endorse the great aggrieved, and thenceforward he was a perfected martyr Nothing could have been more sublime than the sad suffering of this man 'See how I bear the hatred and persecution of this wicked lot, called the Republican party,' said Plaisted at the stake, as the imaginary flames burst up around him. 'For years I have tried to make them good, and they refuse to let me. I despise office, but I pity these men Another constituency, who will better appreciate my worth, must shortly arise and vindicate me" But another constituency made no bids, and once more he sacrificed himself as a political aspirant, this time for the Gubernatorial nomination at the hands of the Republicans, he was grievously persecuted and failed He was impaled on the point of political prejudice, if Plaisted were to tell it, and thenceforth he wasted no more tears in that direction Fusion sprang up and presented his opportunity his longed for constituency Asking no question as to its platform or purpose, he sought its suffrages, and being without a head as it was without a purpose, it took him He was elected by Fusion votes, reinforced by the ventilation of his grievances. The plain people are susceptible, they surrender to the imaginary persecution of a self-constituted martyr. The Republicans had called Plaisted names, Plaisted's fine feelings were hurt, they would dry Plaisted's tears at the polls. Once in office, Plaisted's chief concern always was how to remain in office, and his whole time as Governor has been spent in the invention of schemes for that end The usual grievance has been his resort Failing one in the natural way, he has forced one upon himself Straining to usurp the functions of the whole State Government, the Council checked him, repeating his offence, they exposed his usurpation by an appeal to the Supreme Court Then the whole bad world seemed to be abusing him For months Plaisted has been the worst persecuted man in the universe, and his grievances are paraded with extraordinary pathos, until it seems as if all the elevated qualities of Uriah Heap, Chadband and Pecksniff were combined in his martyred form and found vent in his mangled feelings

In short, the Fusion figure head is an animated grievance Criticise him for his hard money views, and he is persecuted, criticise him as a Greenbacker, and he is persecuted Call him a wobbler in politics and he cries out against such plain speaking, call him consistent, and he cries out against such sarcasm Remind the public of the treatment he visited upon his companions in arms, and he is cruelly pursued with slander. Ask for a record of his deeds of valor, and you stir the sanctimony of his character by insinuation Present him a bill for past campaign expenses and the vulgarity of your motives adds to his uncontrollable grief. Turn which way you will, unless you unscrupulously call him great and good and recklessly vote for him, you persecute Harris M Plaisted, and give him a new opportunity to exhibit his bleeding form to the pitying populace.

Do the people of Maine want a grievance for Governor any longer, and an artificial, deliberately-manufactured grievance at that? This is one of the plain questions at issue, and the Republicans propose to elect a man in preference to a booby.

MAKE NO COMPROMISES

Fusion hopes are waning and Fusion fears are inciting all sorts of schemes to procure a partial success where victory is impossible Republicans should be warned against even listening to propositions for compromise on any part of their ticket, State or local A full Republican vote will elect the Governor, four members of Congress and increase the Republican majority in the legislature, besides giving them a gain of many county officers Realizing this, the Fusion managers are already practicing their deceptive tricks, and as the election draws nearer, and their fate becomes more and more assured their adroit manœuvers will increase Plaisted's personal strikers will be ready to trade Congressional votes for the increase of his chances, or for the chance of legislative gains They will urge the swap upon the false premise that the Republicans will gain more by compromise than by an effort to elect the whole ticket Ladd, Murch, and the others will have their friends also at work, and they will offer a lively market. In this Fusion gang, the lack of principle is no more conspicuous than the lack of fellow feeling, and the candidates are far more ready to cut each others throats in this way than waste money on a forlorn hope, as the Hancock boom did in 1880. The Republicans have no call to be accessory to the throat cutting process. Let the motley throng of Fusionists enjoy it to the full extent. Let not one Republican vote be diverted by any promise of other votes. If it were right, there is no need of it, for, we repeat, the Republicans can make a clean sweep of Fusion by polling a full vote everywhere, and that they must and will do.

Tiring of his own petty grievances, Plaisted has invented one which he calls the wrongs of the boys at the Reform School. It may be dismissed with the remark that nobody believes his story. Your chaff is getting too light even to bait gudgeons with, Governor.

The Fusionists abuse Solon Chase roundly as they do all who leave their ranks Here is one of his hits back at them "The Democrats have played a sharp game. They have come into the Greenback party and claimed to be good Greenbackers and then went back with what Greenbackers they could carry. At our conventions the Democrats have come round so good and so clever—all for the sake of harmony, you know, and advised Greenbackers how to make their nominations—that certain 'Greenbackers' would be more palatable to the Democrats, than other Greenbackers."

A FUSION SHOW.

Our private reports are to the effect that there is a great deal of unhappiness among the Fusionists in Waldo and Knox counties over the county ticket and the manner in which Murch obtained his nomination Now that faithful Fusion organ, the Camden Herald, comes to us with this wail

It is very evident from reports coming to us from different quarters that there is considerable dissatisfaction among Greenbackers and Democrats over a part of the county ticket, and the combination of circumstances that brought it into the field. We have also heard that some Greenbackers were so dissatisfied with it that they should vote the Solon Chase ticket. Now, we have great respect for all Greenbackers who are so at heart, and especially for those who like to see good nominations made, but at the same time WE URGE OUR GREENBACK FRIENDS NOT TO CUT PLAISTED AND THE CONGRESSMEN, if they cannot go all of the county ticket We regret very much the necessity of saying anything about the matter, but so many have spoken to us about it that it seems necessary.

This is sad, indeed But it is no sadder than the average condition of the Fusion party everywhere, only the other organs don't have the frankness of the Herald to speak out about it. On the 12th of September after the election shall have demolished Fusionism, we may look for a storm from the late Fusion quarters, and the brick bats will fly briskly back and forth between the Democratic and Greenback wings, hurting the political standing of some persons Are they on the skirmish line now?

IS THIS A "SMALL" LOSS TOO?

Two years ago Col Jesse Harper spoke all over Maine in behalf of Plaisted This year there has been a sharp controversy between the Fusionists and the Greenbackers as to which party he loved best. As will be seen by the following despatch, he has settled the question himself:

LEWISTON Aug 26 Colonel Jesse Harper, the well known Greenback leader of the West, telegraphs from Greeley, Colorado, that when he reaches Maine he will speak for Solon Chase He has been expected to take the stump for Gov. Plaisted He will speak at Sebago Lake, September 2d.

Now, while it doesn't interest us greatly as to which party Col Harper belongs, there evidently is some significance attached to this, else why have the Fusion papers so earnestly and persistently claimed that he was theirs? When he went about arm-in-arm with Plaisted, Ladd and others two years ago, he was petted by the Fusion organs and advertised as one of the most powerful of their campaigners. He is one of the officers of the National Greenback organization We are curious to know, now, whether his loss to Fusion is a "small" one, like that of Judge Gilbert and all the host of others who have broken ranks and struck out into other and purer atmospheres

THE PROTECTIVE TARIFF AND LABOR

We all know that it taxes him on clothing, his food and nearly every article he uses, and this tax averages more on what the poor man uses than on articles of luxury which the rich indulge in * * There is no tariff tax to prevent men and women coming to this country to compete with the American laborer Be kind enough to tell us what the tariff does for a working man?—Argus

We will oblige our contemporary. Under our protective tariff the wages of the laboring man in this country are from 25 to 75 per cent higher than in Europe, while the most of the necessaries of life here are as cheap or cheaper. Flour and meat, and except now and then a year when our crops are cut off, vegetables are also cheaper here than in Europe. Common cotton cloth is as cheap here as there, and common woolens are not 15 per cent higher In other words the cost of living as a whole for the workingman in this country is no higher for the same kind of food and clothing than it is in Europe, while wages average 25 to 40 per cent higher.

The Argus intimates that so long as the Irishmen, the German and the French men are allowed to come to this country and labor here, we might as well allow them to stay at home and send the products of their labor here to compete with our products without the imposition of a duty The difference is very great The foreigner who labors in European countries works for European wages and lives under European conditions The foreigner who immigrates to this country, soon after landing demands and receives American wages, and speedily learns to live under American conditions.

There are Irish Americans in this city receiving $1 00 per day for their labor, who were able to obtain only 25 cents per day in Ireland. Ask them what England's policy of crushing manufactures in Ireland and driving Irishmen to this land, did for them in the Green Isle, and on the other hand what has been done for them by our American protective system, and you will receive an answer. The fact that half a million immigrants from Europe have come to America to better their condition, during the past year, speaks louder than words in behalf of the policy and government of the United States

The industrious Irishmen, Germans and Frenchmen who have landed on our shores and contributed their labor to the building of railroads and mills, and the development of mines and farms, have not reduced wages; on the contrary they have increased the rewards of the laboring men by opening new opportunities of employment and increasing the capital required to develop our immense resources. Every laboring man is receiving higher wages than he received in this country fifty years ago, and more of the comforts of life. The narrow minded man who looks upon the industrious foreign immigrant as an interloper and enemy, misunderstands the workings of industrial laws It is too late in the day to revive the Know Nothing spirit —Lewiston Journal

The Honorable Geo. W. Ladd and others of that ilk have been quite loud in denouncing money and other evil means to carry elections, just as though they were free from reproach. The very able-bodied assessment scheme, whereby the Fusion candidates were forced to pay from 30 to 100 per cent of their prospective salaries has rather closed their mouths of late, but there is something more serious which concerns the Honorable George. Many days ago the Bangor Messenger contained the details of a transaction which later it rehearsed in brief as follows:

It is but natural for the gentleman in charge of the Freeholder to believe that the Messenger has sold out. It was but a few weeks ago that the Freeholder had taken the Fusion ticket from its editorial columns and was about ready to go to press with the Solon Chase ticket in its place, and the call for a straight Greenback County Convention at the head of its columns in large type. The reason Mr. Banton gave for not doing so was his possession of a letter from a prominent Fusionist threatening to take his paper away if he did as he intended, and the added reason that "Hon. George Washington Ladd had smiled upon the Freeholder." It may be only a coincidence that the alleged price of the Messenger, $300, was just the value of George Washington Ladd's smile.

We are sorry to say that neither Ladd nor the Freeholder nor any mutual friend has been able to lift this little cloud off his reputation, and yet our lesser G. Washington is supposed to carry that little hatchet in his belt.

LIFE INSURANCE

without reserves is imaginary life insurance Life insurance with reserves is practical life insurance, It is adapted to our busy and not too conscientious world of every day life. It puts the heaviest part of the burden of supporting the future widows and orphans upon the young and lusty and strong There is a touch of chivalry in it, too It is performance and not promise It pays out money, and does not merely promise it. It creates a fund of solid wealth, from which to harvest golden grain, and not a fund of empty promises from which to reap only disappointment It accepts at once the burden and starts on its mission There may be no demand for it, but it makes its way, nevertheless, and scatters unsought blessings as it goes —Weekly Underwriter

MAINE NEWS.

GLORIOUS REPUBLICAN MEETING.

Portland Heard From.

Ex-Secretary Blaine and Gen. Gibson

Address an Audience of 3,500 People.

Many Unable to Enter the Hall.

Most Unbounded Enthusiasm.

PORTLAND, Aug. 28. City Hall was packed to its utmost capacity at the Republican rally to-night. It was estimated that 3,500 people were present and many went away unable to get in. Promptly at eight o'clock, Mr. Marks, chairman of the City Committee, called on Hon. Geo. W. Woodman to preside. Gen. Wm. H. Gibson, the first speaker, reviewed the record for the past twenty-three years of the Republican party and spoke three quarters of an hour and received generous applause. At nine o'clock Hon. James G. Blaine was introduced amid the wildest applause. Hats were thrown in the air, handkerchiefs waived, and every demonstration of regard made.

In opening, Mr. Blaine said the eloquent gentleman who has just taken his seat has spoken to you of those great questions which are of common interest to the people of Ohio and to the people of Maine, and so rapid has been the unification of the people of the United States it is impossible in any election in Maine to cast a vote which is not of interest in Ohio and which does not, in fact, affect the interests of the frontierman who is hewing down the forests on the far off Puget sound, or the ranchero who his watching his herd in the valley of the Rio Grande. We are one people and the election you are about to decide is one which affects the whole people of the United States, and they who go about telling you, or attempting to tell you, that it is a State issue which the Republicans are anxious to avoid mistake the fact, for there certainly is nothing before the people of Maine as important as is the choice of four Representatives in the National Congress and of the Legislature that shall choose a Senator of the United States, that shall in other words re-elect Hon. Wm. P. Frye. (Applause.)

Mr. Blaine then reviewed in a masterly manner the grand principles that are at stake in the present campaign, and upon which the people of Maine will pass on September 11th, but as the gifted speaker will address our citizens in Norombega this evening, where he will be greeted by a large audience, we will not mar the effect of his grand effort by any abstract.—ED. WHIG.]

Representatives Nominated.

PORTLAND, Aug. 28. The Republican caucus this evening nominated for Representatives to the Legislature from Portland: Elias Thomas, Clarence Hale, Daniel W. Ames, Orville K. Gerrish, Charls P. Mattocks.

Jersey Association.

WINTHROP, Aug. 28. The Maine State Jersey Association held its annual meeting here to-day. Levi Jones, of Winthrop, was elected President; E. K. Whitney and Harrison O. Gardiner, of Rockland, Vice Presidents; Secretary and Treasurer, N. R. Pike, of Winthrop.

Sudden Death.

BELFAST, Aug. 28. Capt. Geo. T. Crabtree, of Florida, died here suddenly of heart disease while on a visit to his sister. He was formerly of Rockland and an officer in the Fourth Maine Regiment.

Death of a Prominent Lawyer.

PORTLAND, Aug. 28. Hon. Horatio J. Swazey, of Standish, died at his home in that town yesterday, aged 75 years. He was admitted to the York county bar in 1832, and had practiced law in Standish fifty years. He was County Attorney from 1848 to 1853, and member of the Maine Senate in 1856. In politics he was a Democrat.

AT NEWPORT.

Distinguished Visitors.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 28. President Arthur partook of breakfast this morning as a guest of W. W. Astor, Minister to Italy. It was an elegant affair; covers were laid for eleven and among the guests were Bancroft, the historian, and Secretary Frelinghuysen.

The President's one hour reception at the Ocean House was availed of by hundreds of all classes and of both sexes. The band played "Hail to the Chief" as soon as he made his appearance. This afternoon he attended the reception at Sunset Bridge a guest of A. A. Lowe, of Brooklyn.

The President attended a fox hunt this afternoon. About thirty followed the hounds, and several falls occurred, one of which resulted in serious injury to Lloyd S. Bryce, whose hip is believed to have been broken. He was taken home in an unconscious state. The President was the guest to-night of John Wells, of New York, who gave an elaborate dinner.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Fire in the Woods.

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 28. Several acres of heavy pine growth, a mile and a half southerly from this city, belonging to ex-Alderman H. I. Hartshorn, was run over by fire this afternoon. A detail of firemen and apparatus repaired to the scene.

Later.

Another fire broke out in the woods in the southerly part of the city to-night. A second alarm was sounded at a late hour and aid was sent as several buildings were declared in danger.

The State Grange.

LACONIA, Aug. 28. The first annual State Grange picnic and festival opens at Weirs to-morrow afternoon under the auspices of the patrons of husbandry and will continue a few days. A day meeting will be held in the grove near Hotel Weirs and the evening in the soldiers' pavilion.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Gov. Long a Candidate for Congress.

HINGHAM, Aug. 28. Gov. Long, in reply to a letter already published asking him to allow his name to be used as a candidate for Congress from the second district, says: "I would deem the nomination if tendered me a great honor and also deem it a call to public service which I would be bound as well as grateful to accept."

RIOT AT COREA.

A Serious State of Affairs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. The steamer Coptic which arrived here to-day, brings the following advices:

Yokohama, Aug. 11.

At about 5 o'clock in the evening of July 23d, an organized body of insurgents took possession of the main thoroughfares in the capitol of Corea and attacked the Royal residence and headquarters of the Japanese Legation.

The Japanese envoy and consul escaped with about twenty followers and made their way to the palace for protection, but found it already in the possession of the rioters. They then retreated to Jenza Fort, fifteen miles distant, being on the way. Four of the party were killed, three wounded and several missing. The survivors, among whom were the envoy and consul, reached the British surveying ship in the neighborhood and sailed for Nagasaki. A Japanese man-of-war was ordered to proceed to Corea and rescue the emperilled Japanese. The vessel returned August 4th, and announced that all the Japanese at Seoul had probably been slaughtered and that the Capital was in a state of seige. Of the royal inmates of the palace the King alone was spared. The Queen was murdered, his heir and the latter's betrothed were killed by poison forcibly administered. Thirteen Ministers of State and other high dignitaries were slain. Proceedings are said to have been directed by ex-Regent Tai in Keen.

Japan

acted with promptiness and prudence. A fleet has been despatched to the scene of the disorder and troops have been gathered to await the development of affairs. A telegram from the Navy Department at Washington has been received by Admiral Clitz, commanding the United States naval force in Asia, announcing that Commodore Shufelt's treaty with Corea has been rejected and requesting that a ship of war be sent to Corea.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Marquis of Lorne's Trip.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. The Marquis of Lorne, Governor General of Canada, on his trip across the country, will be accompanied by the Princess Louise and suite. The party are expected to arrive at Chicago September 6th by the way of Detroit and then will proceed to the British Columbia by way of San Francisco.

The Indians.

Commissioner Price received a telegram to-day from agent Miller, saying that the northern Cheyennes have reconsidered their rash determination to go to the Pine Ridge agency in Dakota without permission.

POLITICAL MATTERS.

Temperance Bolters.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Aug. 28. The temperance bolters held a convention here to-day; 300 were present. H. C. Ide, of St. Johnsbury, and C. D. Brainard, of Danville, were nominated for Senators; John M. George, Hardwick, and Jabez Smith, Newark, Judges; Henry French, St. Johnsbury, Judge of Probate; Isaac M. Smith, Barnet, Sheriff; Frank Page, Ryegate, State Attorney. The ticket is the same as the regular Republican except Sheriff and State Attorney. A large number present were opposed to the convention and hisses and groans were often indulged in.

MICHIGAN.

A Horrible Deed.

DETROIT, Aug. 28. Mrs. Charles Hover, a young married woman living in Hetford, Genesee county, yesterday bound her five year-old child to herself, then plunged her own head and that of the child in a washtub filled with water; both were drowned. It is supposed to be a case of temporary insanity.

CONNECTICUT.

Deaf Mutes in Convention.

NORWICH, Aug. 28. The thirteenth annual convention of the New England Gallaudet association of deaf mutes was held to-day. Three hundred deaf mutes were present. John P. Tillinghast, of New Bedford, Mass., presided and delivered an address in the sign language. The report of the treasurer shows about $6,000 in the treasury. Oscar Kinsman reported a draft of constitution. It was spelt out section by section in the sign language.

MARINE NEWS.

Fishermen Discouraged.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Aug. 28. Gloomy reports continue pouring in from the French. The shore fishery is a complete failure and the people are despondent. A few days ago the captain of a French vessel while setting at a splitting table conversing about his voyage became much agitated and exclaiming, "no fish, no food," drew the splitting knife across his throat and fell dead at the table. The French banker Virginia foundered Thursday night. The crew were picked up and safely landed. The schooner Mary Jane, fish laden, for this port, was lost at Lamshine; crew saved. Recent arrivals report very bad weather on the banks.

PROTECTION TO THE HAY CROP.

Valuable Statistics for Farmers.

Letter from the Commissioner of Agriculture.

UNITED STATES
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 19, 1882.

My dear Mr. Boutelle,

In reply to your communication relating to the reduction of the duty on hay allow me to say that you are undoubtedly correct in your views of the importance of the hay crop to the farmers of Maine, and of the effect of the recent construction of the tariff law, by which the duty has been reduced one half. This reduction is especially injurious to New England, increasing, as it does, the competition which has already had quite an impetus in recent years. Notice the increase even while the twenty-five per cent. duty was in force, as follows:

	Tons.	Value.	Duties.
1879	10,836	$ 80,828	$ 16,165
1880	66,260	498 634	98,786
1881	105,832	1,865,633	893,12

Large as this item has become, one-sixth of a million tons, such a reduction of the duties may swell immensely the future importation which is to compete with domestic hay in the supply of more than thirty million tons now required for our annual consumption. Coming, as it does, from the Dominion, and gravitating naturally to a district in which the highest prices prevail, New England is threatened with a deluge of importation and her farmers with loss in larger proportion than any other section of the country.

The farmers of Maine well know the comparative importance of this crop. The records of the Department of Agriculture show that for every acre in arable crops in that State there are between four and five in grass to be cut for hay. For ten years the average estimate for the United States was as follows:

Tons	29,266,866
Acres	23,748,056
Value	$327,220,132

Most of this product is grown in the Northern States, a very large proportion of it north of 40°. In 1880 the estimated product was 31,925,233 tons, valued at $371,811,084. This is a sum greater than that produced by the cotton crop, or by any other, corn and wheat alone excepted. The grass crop, including pasturage, is by far the most valuable grown in the United States; and being especially a northern product, grown in great abundance and at little cost in a foreign country which stretches as a continental belt of three thousand miles along our northern border, there is no native agricultural product exposed to such strong and dangerous competition as is the hay crop of the United States.

The effort of Representative Dingley, so promptly taken in Congress for defining the duty and restoring the rate heretofore collected, is worthy of all praise, and is entitled to all the sympathy and aid you are evidently inclined to give it.

Truly yours, etc.,
GEO. B. LORING,
Commissioner.

Hon. C. A. Boutelle,
Bangor, Me.

QUICK TIME TO EUROPE.

A SCHEME TO SHORTEN THE VOYAGE BETWEEN THE NEW AND OLD WORLDS.

The desire to shorten the time of passage between this country and Europe has given rise to a scheme for furnishing continuous railroad transportation from all parts of this country to some point on the eastern coast of Newfoundland and steamship transportation from there to the western coast of Ireland, a distance of only 1,640 miles. It is claimed by its advocates that this method of transportation will reduce, by at least two days, and possibly four days, the traveling time between New York and London. The scheme has been quietly advanced for some time by Dr. Norvin Greene, of the Western Union Telegraph Company; his son and A. L. Blockman, until recently the General Manager of the Newfoundland Railway Company. Early in the present month a company was organized in New York for putting the plan into execution, with Mr. Norvin Green as President, and Mr. Blockman as Vice-President. The name of the corporation is the Great American and European Short Line Railroad Company. Charters have been obtained from the Dominion Government of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, and work has been commenced on what is called the Oxford Division of the road, a stretch of 70 miles in Nova Scotia, from Oxford to New Glasgow. The idea of this line was derived from a similar line that has long been in successful operation in England. That line crosses England by rail from London to the Island of Anglesey, and connects, by steamer across St. George's channel, with a railroad from Dublin to Queenstown, where connection is made with the transatlantic steam-ship which sailed from Liverpool 10 hours before the train left London.

The Great American and European Short Line will run by existing railroads from New York by way of Boston, Bangor, and St. John, New Brunswick, to Oxford, Nova Scotia, where the section already spoken of is building, thence to New Glasgow, and from there by the Halifax and Cape Breton Railroad to the Strait of Canso. From this point the line will extend to Cape North, 120 miles distant; across the Narrows of the Gulf of St. Lawerence, 56 miles, by steamer, and then across Newfoundland, 220 miles by rail. The Strait of Canso will be crossed by bridge, and that as well as the road to Cape North and the road across Newfoundland, is yet to be built. Passengers will be conveyed without change of cars to the port on the eastern coast of Newfoundland, and will there take steam-ship for Ireland. The terminus in Ireland will be near the port of Galway, and from that place to London there is a continuous line of railway, connecting by steamer across St. George's Channel, to London, already in operation. It is a part of the company's plan to run a daily line of fast steam-ships both ways between Newfoundland and Ireland, and thereby it expects to get the contract for carying the United States mails. The advocates of the plan claim many advantages for it, chief among which is the avoidance of the dangers of navigation along the coast of this continent from Newfoundland to New York. They also claim that they will have an almost air line from Chicago to Newfoundland, by which 12 hours will be saved from that point, and great stress is laid on the beauties of the scenery along the line in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. Work on the Newfoundland Division will not, it is said, be commenced before next year, and it is expected that the entire line will be put in operation in 1886 or 1887.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

A correspondent of the Lewiston Journal writes that nothing but a large supply of money can prevent Somerset giving a plurality for Robie, but this, I learn, is expected on Saturday before election, Monday.

Uncle Solon's paper is unusually jubilant. The dissolution of the Fusion Committees, and the falling-away of prominent men from the Fusion ranks, serve to give Uncle Solon "a boom." He now counts on 5000 votes and upwards, and hints that on the day after election he will be a happier man, at least, than the Fusion Major Domo.

The Freeholder of this city keeps up a sharp fire at Solon Chase and his followers, speaking thus of one: "The one-horse billingsgate of such a political flopdoodle and disappointed chronic office-seeker, as horse-jockey White of Levant."

LOCAL MATTERS.

Meeting This Evening.

OPENING RALLY AT NOROMBEGA.

Hon. James G. Blaine and Gen. Wm. Gibson to Address our Citizens.

The Republicans of Bangor will auspiciously open the campaign in this city by a grand rally in Norombega Hall to-night. There will be a great outpouring of citizens and a rousing reception will be given the distinguished speakers who will address the meeting. Let the enthusiasm manifested at this, the first Republican rally in Bangor during the present canvass, be of a kind that shall speak in no uncertain sound.

The announcement that Hon. James G. Blaine is to address our citizens is sufficient to fill Norombega to its utmost capacity. As a public speaker Mr. Blaine has few equals and joined to a perfect command of his subject is a dash and brilliancy which always holds his hearers captive. The interests at stake in the coming election are so important that it is well they can be presented to our people by one so thoroughly versed in the issues involved as Mr. Blaine. Gen. Wm. Gibson is one of the most eloquent sons of Ohio and he will renew the favorable impression created on the stump in the Maine campaign of two years ago.

The meeting will be called to order at eight o'clock by Mr. George A. Davenport, Chairman of the Republican City Committee, and ex-Gov. Daniel F. Davis will be selected as presiding officer. The Bangor Band will be in attendance and discourse excellent music. The galleries will be reserved for ladies and their escorts.

The brig Rachel Coney is to undergo some repairs.

Speaker Keifer, of the House of Representatives, is expected at Mt. Desert in a few days.

The families of Mr. C. W. Coffin and Mr. C. L. Marston, have been rusticating at Sedgwick.

The steamer Ralph Rose will make an excursion to Fort Point, Dice's Head and Northport to-morrow.

Katahdin Encampment will turn out in full regalia, and attend the funeral to-morrow of Mr. J. N. Boynton.

The annual fair of the Waldo and Penobscot Agricultural Society will be held in Monroe, October 5th and 6th.

A meeting of the Maine Central directors will be held in Portland to-day to consider the lease of the E. & N. A. Railway.

The British schooner Amherst has arrived from Chivarie, Nova Scotia, with a cargo of 140 tons of plaster rock for Morse & Co.

Wallace Ross, the celebrated oarsman, breakfasted at the Penobscot Exchange yesterday morning on his way to his St. John home.

Another steamboat wharf is to be built at Lamoine. Hon. John D. Hopkins and several others are to form a stock company and build at Alanson Googins' shore.

The yacht Nellie was in the city Sunday with Mr. F. W. Fabian and a party of ladies and gentlemen from Boston. The yacht has since sailed for a cruise down the bay.

Y. M. C. A. A young men's prayer meeting will be held this evening at the rooms of the Association, commencing at 8 o'clock. All young men are cordially invited.

The wife of Rev. Samuel Andrews, of New York, and her sister, Mrs. Emily Blake, of Boston, are spending a short time with their friends in Exeter, where they formerly resided.

The well known stallion "Brown Harry" died very suddenly at Dover Monday. He was about twenty-six years old, and was owned by Mr. H. L. Brockway at the time of his death.

The homestead of the late Joseph W. Lane, located on Howard street, which was advertised for public sale September 1st, is withdrawn from public sale and will be sold at private sale by the administrator.

Our correspondent in stating that Mr. Frank P. Livermore, of Bradley, was buried under Masonic honors was in error. The deceased was a member of the Odd Fellows and was buried with the honors of that organization.

The Rev. R. L. Howard arrived home this week from an extended trip to the West, having been as far as Dakotah. Mr. Howard is looking well after his trip and we trust is both rested and refreshed by his five weeks' vacation. We are glad to see him among us once more.

Mr. Fred S. Woodbury, who has been an efficient letter carrier in this city for a period of nearly eight years, has been appointed postal clerk on the E. & N. A. Railway route between Bangor and Vanceboro and will probably assume the duties of his new position the first of next month.

LAID TO REST. A telegram received here Saturday announced the death of the widow of the late Wm. H. Greenough, formerly of this city. The body arrived in the city from Boston on yesterday morning's train and funeral services were held at Mt. Hope at 2 P. M. The lady had many friends in this city.

AN OLD OFFENDER. The police yesterday afternoon captured an old offender, Jack Fury, after an absence from the city of many months during which he has boarded at times in the jails of several counties, returned to Bangor, and as usual got intoxicated. He offered some resistance when arrested, but was readily taken by officers Allen and Gordon to the station house.

EXCURSION ON THE QUEEN CITY. The steamer Queen City yesterday made an excursion from Islesboro to Bar Harbor. The same steamer will to-day make an excursion from Winterport to Islesboro, where a clambake will be served the party. On Wednesday the steamer will make a private excursion from this city to Bar Harbor and on Thursday the steamer will take a private excursion from Brewer to Bar Harbor, returning home the following day.

THE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH. In the recent tornado which visited our city the Universalist church suffered the loss of its spire. It was the expression of many of the society immediately after the catastrophe not to rebuild till next season, but after consideration it has been decided to take a different action. A meeting was held last evening at which a committee was chosen and instructed to procure plans and proceed at once to rebuild the steeple. The probabilities are that a large clock will be placed on the church.

The city schools will open a fortnight from this (Tuesday) morning. The reason of the term not beginning with the first day of the week is that Monday is election day and that the polling places are in several instances at the school houses.

MILITIA. Co. G. 2nd Regiment, M. V. M., had a short drill last evening at their armory, under the command of 1st Lieut. Williamson. Col. Daniel White and several members of his staff were in attendance. After the drill, thirty-seven men were enlisted and mustered in, and the organization now has its full quota of sixty men. The company will hold a drill at their armory to-night and frequent drills will be held in order that a good state of efficiency may be secured before the State Muster. The election of a captain of the company will occur on Monday evening next.

EXCITEMENT IN AUGUSTA. An Associated press despatch says: Great excitement was caused in Augusta Saturday evening in connection with a liquor seizure. Joshua Nye, the well-known Prohibitionist and temperance worker, Saturday swore out a warrant, under the provisions of the State liquor law, against Hoyt & Co.'s Express Company, doing business by the Boston boat, for bringing malt liquors to the city, supposed to be for illegal sale. The warrant was placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Jewell, who went to the storehouse of the Company to serve it. He found the place locked up, but broke the lock and entered, finding 62 cases of beer, which were addressed to different parties, most of which are known to be fictitious names. Teams were engaged to haul the cases to the county jail, when an immense crowd assembled, some of whom pulled the drivers from the teams threw stones and bricks at them and seized the beer and made away with it. The city officers did nothing to stop the riotous proceedings. One man named Wade was cut badly in the forehead and another badly bruised about the limbs and body. Officer Jewell had his wrist cut with a stone. Less than half the beer was recovered.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Meeting at Bridgton.

The campaign in Bridgton opened Friday evening with a Republican rally at the Town Hall. A good audience greeted ex-Gov. Dingley, who for two hours candidly and fairly discussed the tariff, the reduction of the revenue and State issues.

A Magnificent Meeting at Lewiston.

A magnificent rally of the Republican citizens of Androscoggin county occurred in City Hall, Lewiston, Saturday evening. Fully 2,500 people were present, and there was unbounded enthusiasm. Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., presided and Hon. T. B. Reed was the speaker of the evening. The meeting adjourned with three rousing cheers for Congressman Reed, and for the victory of Republican principles, September 11th.

Republican Rally at La Grange.

LA GRANGE, Aug. 26.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

The Republicans of this town and vicinity had a grand rally at the Town Hall in this village last evening. The meeting was called to order by Robert J. McDuff, chairman of the Town Committee, and Hon. Thos. H. Wentworth, of Bradford, was called to the chair. The hall was filled to overflowing by an earnest and enthusiastic audience, who listened with marked attention for nearly two hours to a very able, eloquent and convincing speech from Col. Anson S. Wood, of New York. He was frequently interrupted by bursts of applause from the beginning to the end of his speech, which was a masterly presentation of the living issues involved in the present campaign. Col. Wood is thoroughly conversant with the political history and necessity of the country and is an effective worker for the Republican cause. At the close of Col. Wood's speech three cheers were given for "the orator of the evening" and three more for "Robie and victory," which, judging from the spirit of the meeting, are sure to come to the Executive Chair and the Republicans of Maine.

Charleston Republicans Wide-awake.

CHARLESTON, Aug. 28.

Editor Daily Whig and Courier:

The Republican Campaign Club, organized a short time ago, met for the first time Saturday evening. A good number of earnest, wide-awake Republicans were present and also a fair sprinkling of ladies. Addresses were made by Ira W. Davis, Esq., and J. D. Cochran, Esq., of East Corinth. The Republicans of this town are all alive and will be heard from later.

AMUSEMENTS.

Charlotte Thompson.

No artist now before the public holds a more honorable position in the popular regard than Miss Charlotte Thompson. And no one is more deserving as, on or off the stage, Miss Thompson is ever the artistic actress and the true woman. In her special roles she has no superiors, and this proud distinction she has won only by long and arduous labor in her chosen profession, having made her position assured by always trying to do her very best under all circumstances. As a result, on every occasion wherein she has made a return visit to any place, her audiences have always been largely augmented, and in no instance has she failed to come up to the popular expectation. Let her have a generous welcome next Saturday evening at the Opera House.

Spanish Students.

Many of our readers will remember the delightful concerts given in our city two years ago by the original Spanish Students, and will be glad to know that these talented artists will appear at the Opera House next Sunday evening, presenting their wonderful and novel performances on their Spanish mandolins and guitar. They will have the assistance of the Weber male quartette of Boston, and Miss Josie A. Hand, soprano.

Notes.

Neil Burgess will probably play a brief engagement in London before returning to this country.

The Corinne Merrie Makers are now playing in Winnipeg.

Mrs. Mary Beebe Haskell was announced to make her reappearance as a public vocalist at Columbus, O., on the 23d inst. She joins the Boston "Ideals" for next season.

Mr. Denman Thompson's "Joshua Whitcomb" company met Saturday at Farmington, N. H., for rehearsals, and the season in the same town on Monday. The company includes several favorites of former seasons, among them Miss Julia Wilson and Isabel Coe, and a number of new members.

HO! FOR MARANOCOOK.

Grand Republican Meeting.

A Brilliant Array of Speakers.

The great Republican mass-meeting at Lake Maranocook, will occur to-morrow, and a monster gathering of the Republican hosts of Maine may be anticipated. From all directions there are indications of a tremendous turnout, and it will doubtless prove the grandest political demonstration ever held in the State.

Thirty bands will be in attendance, and a grand consolidated concert will be given under the leadership of Mr. Collins, between the hours of 11 and 1 o'clock. The speaking will begin immediately after the close of the concert, and the array of orators is the most brilliant ever before called together in Maine. Hon. James G. Blaine will preside, and the assemblage will be addressed by Hon. Eugene Hale, Hon. Warner Miller, (of N. Y.,) Gen. Selden Connor, Hon. Geo. D. Robinson, (of Mass.,) Hon. Seth L. Milliken, Hon. Geo. B. Loring, (Commissioner of Agriculture,) Hon. Thomas B. Reed, Gen. Robert P. Kennedy, (of Ohio.) Hon. C. A. Boutelle, Gen. John L. Swift, (of Mass.,) Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., and Hon. Lewis Barker.

The executive committee will be at the Lake to-day, and perfect all the arrangements for the greatest meeting ever known in Maine. Special trains will be run over the railroads, and the Maine Central is prepared to accommodate a great throng. The special train will leave Bangor for the Lake at 7 55 A. M., and start to return at 4.40 P. M. The fare from Bangor, Dexter and Belfast, for the round trip will be $1.25, and for other stations will be in like proportion. Persons on the line of the E. & N. A. R'y will come on the regular trains to Bangor, and the tickets will be one fare for the round trip on that road in addition to the fare between here and the Lake.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

Two Men Drowned in a Piscataquis Pond.

Information has been received here of a very sad drowning accident which occurred yesterday forenoon in Foss' Pond, Kingsbury, by which Frank Storer, a well known livery stable keeper of Dexter, and his brother met with death. It is understood they were fishing from a canvass canoe and, were using the dip net when their craft upset. A man who accompanied them succeeded in reaching the shore but the Storer brothers both sank and were drowned.

The following special despatch to the WHIG was received last evening from Dexter: Frank Storer, formly a well known stage driver for nearly twenty years, a livery man here, and his brother Everett, a commercial traveler of Lowell, Mass., were drowned to-day at Foss' Pond, Kingsbury, where they were fishing. A large party went from here and are expected to return to-night with the bodies. Both of the deceased were highly respected and widely known. The sad event has cast a gloom over this whole community.

NORTHPORT NOTES.

The Closing Services of Campmeeting Week.

Wesleyan Grove, Friday, Aug. 25.

This is the closing day of our feast. It opened with the usual morning social services which were followed by a sermon at the stand, by Rev. J. H. Mooers, of Bar Harbor. His text was from 1st Thes. 5-19, "Quench not the spirit." He said, in a primary sense the text is to the church, but has a real application as well to the sinner. The spirit referred to is not an emanation from God, but a person, the third person of the Trinity. The spirit officially is (1) the reprover of sin, (2) the great enlightener, (3) the comforter taking the place of Christ; he is in the church, (4) the sanctifier applying the benefits of the atonement, the blood of cleansing, &c.

The afternoon service was conducted by Rev. L. L. Hanscom, of Orono. The announcement for his text, was Prov. 18-24, "A man that hath friends must shew himself friendly; and their is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother." He said, a true friend is a priceless boon. Life would be cheerless indeed without a friend. But the time is to come in the life of us all, when we shall need such a friend as this world cannot give. Our text assures us there is such a friend. Many think that because they do not love God, He does not love them; but this is one of the worlds' sad mistakes. Despite your follies, O sinner, God loves you. Christ's enemies said of him, he is a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners. The first charge was false, but the second, thank God, is true. The speaker showed numerous evidences that Jesus is our real friend.

The closing services of the meeting were held this evening. Rev. C. A. Plumer had charge of a social meeting at the stand and Rev. T. Gerrish of another in the Hampden chapel. Thus closes a week of hard and earnest work, but who can tell what the harvest will be? To-morrow the larger portion of the worshippers will leave, but a very goodly number will remain awhile longer. Our grounds never looked better, and a tarry of several weeks here cannot fail to be a luxury.

Wesleyan Grove, Saturday Aug. 26.

This is the day of bustle, of running to and fro. It began early and continued long. Nearly every man, woman or child that you meet bears a bag, or a box, or a bundle, and many of them beds and trunks, &c. It is the truckman's harvest, too great a harvest some think, but we are not sure. We would not like to do without them. However, a wheel-barrow would be a saving, and we have half a mind to bring one another year. This evening a hush and quiet prevails that is decidedly restful. Still there are a few of us left. We think there are probably five hundred or more to remain awhile longer.

Sunday, Aug. 27.

This morning the church bell rang again It was learned that one preacher had not departed and he was invited to exercise his gifts. A severe cold stood somewhat in the way; but he consented to try, and was greeted with a congregation of two hundred or more. His text was John, 6:35, "I am the bread of life." He said these words are from one of our Saviour's most remarkable discourses. A few of the thoughts the text suggests are given. Jesus Christ is a necessity. Bread is a general term for food. This is a necessity. Take all the food out of the world and though you leave all else we perish. If this be true and Jesus has not abused our intelligence in the use of this figure, then is he an absolute necessity. His reception is a necessity. This is true of food. It may be full of life-giving power, but never if not received. The atonement, with all its merit and mercy, can do nothing for those who do not take it. His daily reception is a necessity. This is true of food. One meal, however full and sufficient, won't do for a lifetime. So of Jesus. Conversion may be good and necessary, but no conversion was ever deep and thorough enough to save a soul that doesn't daily feed on Jesus. He is the bread of life. Other food is the bread of death. We eat of it, but we die. Not so this bread. It sustains forever. It gives holiness and perpetuates it through the eternities. He proved his power to do this by His wonderful deeds and His final victory over the grave. Are you feeding on him? How simple the gospel! We eat and live, physically. We may not understand all the mysteries, but we have no difficulty in understanding the fact. So with the life of purity. It is take Jesus and live, that's all.

At 7:30 P.M. a very excellent prayer and social meeting was enjoyed in the Hampden Chapel. Every seat was occupied and the hour was a delight.

FROM CALAIS.

A Rousing Republican Meeting—More Fusion Discord—The Republicans of Washington County Will Render a Good Report.

[From our regular correspondent.]

The Republicans opened the campaign in this city Saturday night. A large and enthusiastic audience gathered at St. Croix Hall, and attentively listened for two hours to the strong, convincing arguments of Senator Frye. Mayor Boardman presided and prominent citizens occupied the stage.

At the close Mr. Frye received quite an ovation, and in conversation expressed himself as highly gratified at his reception. Up to this time the campaign in Calais has been lagging, but Senator Frye's visit and speech has done much to awaken the Republicans to their former earnestness and zeal. An active campaign is to be inaugurated at once and the 11th of September will bring a report from Washington county that will receive the applause of Republicans throughout the State.

FUSION DISCORD.

At the Plaisted Convention held in Princeton, Saturday, to nominate a Representative to the Legislature from the "Wild Cat" class, there was a bitter fight between the factions, and the Convention nearly broke up in a row. The feeling was so bitter that it is said the defeated candidate, N. Horsman, will carry the fight to the polls and defeat the election of his antagonist, John D. Lawler, of Baileyville. The Republicans of Calais are delighted over the situation and say that it is now a foregone conclusion that this noted district will be redeemed. The breach in the Fusion ranks is so wide that the district will probably be Republican for years.

HE WILL NOT BE MISSED.

The defection of Mr. E. L. Hill, which the Fusionists are just at present highly elated over, is not considered of any significance by the Republicans of Calais. It is true he has been a member of the City Committee, but his appointment two years ago was necessary to hold him in the party. He is without influence and takes with him only his own vote. He bolted the regular Republican nominee in Ward 6 at the municipal election last year and has not since been considered a Republican. He belonged with the opposition and his formal withdrawal from the party was anticipated and causes no regret.

Business Items.

THE BOSTON AND SAVANNAH STEAMSHIP COMPANY, whose card appears in our paper to-day, offers to tourists, invalids or travelers wishing to combine business with pleasure the most convenient means of transit between the North and South. Their new and magnificent steamers leave Boston every Thursday, and make connections by rail and steamer with Florida and all points South and Southwest. The rates of fare are very low, the trip one of the most delightful on the Atlantic, and everything conducive to the comfort and pleasure of the passengers is lavishly furnished by the managers of this line, which is conceded to be the finest on the coast.

"POOR LITTLE FELLOWS."

Whether the children have done wrong or not in stealing green fruit, we cannot help pitying them when they wake up in the night with grievous colic and direful cramps. The agony depicted on a suffering child's face is a sad picture. It would be sadder, if it could not be remedied. But happily there is a convenient remedy in Perry Davis's Pain Killer, which everybody can use. City Marshal D. S. Brigham, of Fall River, Mass., says from long experience that, he deems it the duty of every parent to keep Pain Killer in the house, and never be a night without it.

JOE BENTLEY'S BULL-FIGHT.

Joe Bentley was an American boy who had been brought up on a cattle farm in the interior of one of the New England States, but who had left home for the more congenial life on board a man-of-war. His first voyage took him to Lisbon, where, to his great delight, he learned that there was to be, during the following Easter week, a great bull-fight. The wildest bulls had been brought from Andalusia, a large number of horses from the royal stables were to be in the ring, the Queen herself would preside and distribute the favors, and, in short, it was to be the grandest bull-fight seen in Portugal for many years.

All this had a peculiar fascination for Joe. In all his allusions to Portugal and Spain, he had declared to the boys that the only thing he cared to see in those countries was a bull-fight.

The bull-fights of Portugal are different from those of Spain in several important particulars. At every such fight in Spain, where this cruel sport is conducted in the most barbarous manner, many horses are killed, and sometimes men, too, fall victims and at the close of the fight the bull is dispatched by the matador, or bull-killer. The law of Portugal does not allow the bull to be killed, and his horns are always padded or tipped with brass, so that he can not gore the horses. Once in a while, however, a man is killed, in spite of this precaution. The excitement is intense, as the object is to drive or drag the bull from the inclosure

Accordingly, having obtained permission to go ashore on the day of the fight he made his way at an early hour to the bull-ring, and obtained one of the best seats He thought that all Lisbon must be there All waited in suspense for the Queen to enter the royal box Presently she appeared, and was greeted with repeated cries of applause. Then the sport began, and Joe watched with interest and enthusiasm the mad rush of the bull into the ring, and admired the agility of his tormentors in evading his onslaughts. Finally, however, the superb animal has driven all his opponents from the inclosure.

For an instant the bull was master of the ring

The most perilous feat of the bull-ring was now attempted. A young man, covered with silver lace hung all over with little bells, undertook to throw himself between the bull's horns and cling to them till the bull should be sufficiently exhausted to be overpowered and taken from the ring. He courageously made the attempt but unhappily missed his aim and fell directly in front of the enraged animal.

At this moment of terrible suspense, moreover, Joe suddenly saw what had not yet been discovered by any one else—that the bull had lost the padding from one of his horns. He stood over the young man, his eyes glaring and his whole attitude one of furious anger. He refused to be diverted by the colors glancing all around him and he seemed to be considering whether he should trample on his victim or pierce him with the naked horn The young man did not dare to move for he was aware that the bull possessed every advantage. The excitement of the audience was at its highest point, and the overwrought feelings of our hero would allow him to retain his seat no longer

With the sprightliness of a sailor-boy he leaped the paling. Everybody was astonished at his temerity. An Englishman present, fearing for the life of the unpracticed lad, cried out, "Come back!" Several Americans shouted for him to leave the ring. But Joe had made the venture, and he was not going to be frightened from the ring On the farm, at home he had conquered many a steer quite as wild and powerful as even this maddened bull He was conscious that thousands of eyes were watching him with eager interest, but without hesitation he advanced toward the bull coolly placing himself so that with one hand he could grasp the bull's horn, while with the other he could seize his shaggy mane The young man, meanwhile, had leaped to his feet and retired to a safe position, leaving Joe to fight the bull alone. Joe's mode of attack had never before been seen in Portugal, and it appeared the extreme of folly A murmur of remonstrance was heard in every part of the audience Many cried out for campinos to rush in and rescue the reckless youth, The bull did not seem to appreciate the turn events had taken and for a moment stood motionless. A strange silence, almost ominous of defeat to our hero settled upon the pavilion It was a thrilling scene—the brave sailor boy apparently at the mercy of the furious animal, and thousands of spectators looking on with breathless interest.

Suddenly the bull recovered himself, and, with an angry flaunt of his head, renewed hostilities. Joe quickly found that clinging to a yard arm in a tempest was less difficulty than to the bull's slippery horn but he was determined to be captain of this lively craft Somehow he felt that the honor of his country depended upon his victory.

As a good seaman favors his ship in a hurricane, so Joe resolved to humor the bull He realized that he must take care of his strength, for he would need it all before he got through with his antagonist Now the bull began to exhibit his wrath He writhed and hooked and stamped. One instant the audience expected to see poor Joe dangling from his horns, and the next trampled helpless beneath his feet But Joe clung as he would cling to a life-line in a fearful surf. During the intervals of the bull's violence, as in the water on its ebb, he struck gallantly upon his feet Each time he did so, cries of "Bravo! bravo!" rent the air. The bull continued to put forth still greater power He plunged and tore around the ring. Alternately he jerked and swung Joe from his feet and fairly spun him through the air. The pavilion tossed, and reeled, and whirled before Joe's giddy sight Round and round flew the bull, as in a race for life Several times he completed the circuit of the ring, a circle of dust rose from his track and hung over it like a wreath of smoke.

How Joe held on! He feared he could not endure the shock and strain for a minute longer, and he dreaded to let go. He began to lament his rashness. But all at once the bull's speed slackened Joe felt a thrill of gratitude as his feet once more touched the ground He was tired of flying, and was very glad to run The bull, convinced that he could not liberate his horn from Joe's unyielding grip, came to a halt, and with disappointed anger began to paw the ground Joe had longed for this advantage, which, strange to say, a bull seldom gives till toward the close of a fight, and he sprang directly in front of him and firmly grasped both his horns "Bravo! bravo!" rent the air Joe braced himself and waited, and when the bull threw his foot high in the air with its little cloud of dust, by a quick, powerful movement Joe twisted his head to one side so strongly that the fierce animal was thrown off his balance, and fell heavily upon his side.

A score of men rushed in to hold him down until he should be secured, then he was rolled and taken triumphantly from the ring. Joe was almost deafened by the applause He suddenly found himself a hero in the estimation of the audience, and was overwhelmed by the outbursts of enthusiasm. He was not allowed to leave the ring until he had been led to the royal box, where the Queen, with her own hand, passed him a beautiful bouquet. She also extended to him an invitation to come to the palace where she herself would receive the brave American boy.

GOVERNOR SPRAGUE RESISTS.

HIS MANSION GUARDED BY ARMED MEN

A Providence despatch to the Tribune says there was great excitement at Canonchet, Governor Sprague's mansion, Friday, and the pluck, or, as some term it, the foolhardiness, of the "little war Governor," is the talk of the place. This is the tenth day since the sale of the famous estate, and according to the terms of the sale, Trustee Chaffee was to deliver the property to Francis D. Moulton, the purchaser, to-day. Mr. Chaffee, Mr. Parkhurst and others went down on the 9 40 train, arriving at the Pier at 11 o'clock, and at once took carriages to drive to Canonchet. As they approached the place it was evident something was going on. From the main tower a signal flag was flying, and pacing to and fro on the turret was an armed sentry, with a rifle over his shoulder. The party arrived at the gate, where the auction sale was held. Here they were met by three men who denied them admittance to the grounds. Across the bridge and standing in the centre of the road were Willie Sprague and a big man, each mounted on a horse and each holding a "shillelah" in his hand. About the extensive grounds could be seen men pacing backward and forward, each carrying a rifle, their step being the measured tread of the soldier. On the tower the sentinel paced backward and forward over a space of ten feet. He was watching the attacking party, and appeared to be acting as the chief sentinel of the guard. The flag which floated from the tower looked like a section of the "Bloody Shirt" Ever and anon the report of a rifle would be heard. There seemed to be a perfect code of signals, for when the trustee's party drove around the skirts of the property their course was told to the main body of the guard by an exchange of rifleshots from the others. The three men at the outer gates denied that they were acting as keepers under the United States Marshal's attachment. They said that they were simply obeying his commands, which were to exclude anybody from Canonchet grounds, no matter who he was or what his business was. One of the guards said that the house is well protected and any one who attempts to enter the premises, or trespass, will be sorry for it The attacking party agreed that it would be dangerous and unwise to attempt to invade the fortified premises, and withdrew, leaving Governor Sprague master of the situation.

Mr. Chaffee says that he shall now let the law take its course. Mr. Moulton informed the Tribune representative that he had complied with the terms of the sale, and had counted out and offered to the trustee the purchase money, but Mr. Chaffee being unable to make a delivery, the money did not pass from his hands He said that he did not intend to forsake his claim, but would stand by his purchase What will be done next is not know The guard was composed mainly of former employes of the Spragues summoned from Quidneck and Natick on Wednesday It is thought that the case of Peabody-Martini rifles bought by Mr. Sprague some time ago is at Canonchet, and that the guards are armed with them Trustee Chaffee will make application to the Supreme Court to-morrow to have the purchaser of the property, which was sold under its order, put in possession at once. The general opinion is that Mr. Sprague will not resist further Mr. Chaffee will not make another attempt to enter the place

SUMMER CARE OF FOWLS

At the moulting season, the fowls require more care than is generally bestowed upon them by the ordinary keeper. The two year-olds should be kept in so good a condition that they pass through the annual moult without any material diminution of eggs. There is some difference in breed, but more in management and keep Fowls renew their coat of feathers annually. The earlier they do this the better, as then the feathers are all ripened before cold weather, and a good covering is gained, after which the body takes on fat, and the hens fix up for laying winter eggs If the hens are kept in a low condition, this season is greatly prolonged, and the fowls seldom gain the previous condition before cold weather comes.

The older fowls now commence to drop feathers, and the more gradual this is done the better, as the strength of the fowl is kept up, as also is the egg-production This is brought about by a high state of feeding, good and varied food being provided. The young hens or pullets of the present year are now forming the habit of laying, especially the early hatched of the Leghorn tribe, and require extra care and feed. They should be separated from the young cocks In this manner peace is kept among the quiet young pullets, which should be allowed as much as possible a long run by themselves, provided with plenty of hearty, strengthening grain Thus they have an opportunity of perfecting that maturity which, when not retarded, or met with any drawback, brings success.

Some fowls rarely appear to shed a feather out of season, while others are continually dropping their feathers here and there, and never appear in a perfect state of feather. These latter are rarely good layers, and are usually Asiatics and their crosses. They are generally infested by vermin, that destroy the life of the feathers and cause them to drop prematurely. If the fowls' bodies are kept clean, the feathers will be bright with good keep, and when the season arrives for the regular moult, the new feathers are ready to take the place left vacant by the worn-out dress in a few days the body is covered bright and new, the normal condition of the bird kept up, and in many instances the egg production also. Moulting usually occurs in August and September, but some fowls do not moult until into October and November These fowls are generally the large layers, but with good care and food, they will pass through this season with small difficulty, if warmly housed at night They seldom make so strong or good a bird as those which drop the feathers at the usual period In the long run, the small breeds are the more profitable, not only in consideration of the quantity of eggs, but the same amount of feed on the smaller birds makes more pounds of flesh and of better quality.

A GENEROUS ACT

That will be Appreciated by All Who Care for Their Complexion and Skin.

It is not generally known that the nervous system has a wonderful influence over the skin, but this is a fact known to medical men who have given much of their time to the study of diseases of the skin. No one can have a clear and fair complexion unmixed with blotches or pimples who is very nervous.

Whatever tends to a healthful condition of the nervous system always beautifies the complexion and removes roughness and dryness of the skin Some skin diseases are not attended by visible signs on the surface, but an intolerable itching that renders life miserable.

We copy the following deserving and interesting compliment from the Tribune which says "Dr C W. Benson's New Remedy, "SKIN CURE, is received by the public with great confidence and it is regarded as a very generous act on the Doctor's part to make known and prepare for general use his valuable and favorite prescription for the treatment of skin diseases, after having devoted almost his entire life to the study and treatment of nervous and skin diseases, in which he took great delight He was for a number of years Physician in charge of the Maryland Infirmary on Dermatology and anything from his hand is at once accepted as authority and valuable The remedy is fully the article to attack the disease, both internally, through the blood, and externally, through the absorbents, and is the only reliable and rational mode of treatment These preparations are only put up for general use after having been used by the Doctor in his private practice for years, with the greatest success, and they fully merit the confidence of all classes of sufferers from skin diseases" This is for sale by all druggists. Two bottles, internal and external treatment, in one package Don't be persuaded to take any other It costs one dollar

OH, MY HEAD!

WHY WILL YOU SUFFER?

Sick headache, nervous headache, neuralgia, nervousness, paralysis, dyspepsia, sleeplessness, and brain diseases, positively cured by Dr Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills They contain no opium, quinine, or other harmful drug Sold by druggists Price, 50 cents per box, two for $1, six boxes for $2 50, by mail, postage free —Dr C W. A BRAVE LADY.

She Endures the Pain of a Severe Surgical Operation Without Taking Chloroform.

[From the Courier]

Mrs Schoonmaker, of Creek Locks, Ulster Co, N Y, had the misfortune to entirely lose the sight of one of her eyes, through an accident, and endured painful inflammatory action therein for two long years, the other eye finally becoming sympathetically affected, her general health seriously suffering, indeed she was a mere wreck, a walking skeleton. In this terrible strait she consulted Dr David Kennedy, of Rondout, N Y, who told her at once that the injured eye must be removed She quietly but firmly said. "All right, Doctor but don't give me chloroform. Let my husband sit by my side during the operation, and I will neither cry out or stir" The work was done, and the poor woman kept her word Talk of soldierly courage! This showed greater pluck than it takes to face a hundred guns To restore her general health and give tone and strength to the system, Dr Kennedy then gave the "Favorite Remedy," which cleansed the blood and imparted new life to the long suffering woman She rapidly gained health and strength, and is now well. The "Favorite Remedy" is a priceless blessing to women No family should be without it Your druggist has it If not send to Dr David Kennedy Rondout, New York
